THE COMPLETE PR PARTNER KIT

Everything you need to represent both brands.

A coordinated package of media materials, brand standards, messaging frameworks, and reference documents for PR partners representing Mino Peptides and RegenRX Health.

Thank you for representing Mino Peptides and RegenRX Health. Here is what we are giving you to do that well.

This kit contains every document a PR partner needs to represent Mino Peptides and our affiliated clinical platform, RegenRX Health Institute, accurately and confidently. It is designed to give you what you need to brief journalists, pitch stories, draft coverage, produce derivative materials, and answer the questions you are most likely to receive, without having to come back to us for source documents in the middle of a conversation.

We have organized the kit into four parts. The first part is foundational reference material: the media fact sheet, the boilerplate package, and the founder Q&A. These are the documents to read first and to refer back to constantly. The second part is the operational toolkit: the press release template, the talking points sheet, and the brand asset specifications. These are the documents you will draw from when you are actually doing the work. The third part is the brand collateral: the catalogs, brochures, one-pagers, and leave-behinds for both Mino and RegenRX. These are the documents you can send to journalists, prospective accounts, and partners. The fourth part is the supporting materials: the tier reference, the term sheet template, and the contact sheet.

A complete index of every asset in the kit, with a brief description and recommended use case for each, follows on the next pages.

Two principles govern how we want you to work with these materials. First, accuracy matters more than speed. If you are not sure how to answer a question or characterize a detail, the right answer is always “Let me get you the most accurate version of that and follow up” rather than a guess. Second, our voice matters. The materials in this kit are written in a specific register that differentiates Mino and RegenRX from the broader category, and that register should carry through into anything you produce on our behalf.

For any question, request, or approval need, write to hello@mino.life with a clear subject line. We aim to respond to PR partner inquiries within one business day.

Foundational reference.

The four documents in this section are the foundation of how a PR partner understands Mino. Read them first, refer to them often, and treat them as the source of truth for any factual claim about the company.

Media Fact Sheet

Seven-page reference covering company at-a-glance information, founder biographies, the thirty-nine compound portfolio, market context, and press contact routing. The document a journalist receives when they ask for background on the company.

Boilerplate Package

Three approved company descriptions at three different lengths (short, medium, long), the primary tagline, secondary positioning lines, core messages, and a list of language to avoid.

Operational toolkit.

The three documents in this section are the working tools a PR partner uses when actively producing materials, briefing journalists, or doing the day-to-day work of representing Mino. They build on the foundational reference but are structured for production rather than for reading.

Press Release Template

Two pre-structured press release variants (one for company announcements, one for portfolio or platform announcements) with bracketed placeholders for announcement-specific content and detailed style guidance for PR partners. All releases require Mino approval before distribution.

MINO_PRESS_RELEASE_TEMPLATE.PDF

Media Talking Points

Scannable reference for live media calls and briefings. Organized into the core five message points that should land in every conversation, story angles approved for pitching, recommended responses to difficult questions, and an explicit list of what not to say.

MINO_TALKING_POINTS.PDF

Brand Asset Specifications

Visual identity standards for both Mino and RegenRX, including the color system with HEX, RGB, CMYK, and PMS values, the typography hierarchy, the wordmark construction, and the rules governing brand asset usage. High-resolution source files available on request.

MINO_BRAND_ASSETS.PDF

Brand collateral.

These are the customer-facing brand materials for both Mino and RegenRX. PR partners may share them with journalists who want to see how the brands present themselves to their actual customers, with prospective accounts during pitching conversations, and with strategic partners who need to understand the full positioning.

How to work with us.

The following protocols govern how Mino works with PR partners on a day-to-day basis. Following them will make the working relationship more productive and will help us respond to your needs quickly.

COMMUNICATION CHANNELS

All PR partner communication runs through hello@mino.life. Use clear subject lines that begin with the request type: “Press Release Approval,” “PR Question,” “Brand Asset Request,” “Q&A Request,” or “Interview Request.” This routing convention helps us respond faster.

RESPONSE TIMES

We aim to respond to PR partner inquiries within one business day. Press release approvals require at least one full business day for review. Brand asset requests require one to two business days for fulfillment. For genuinely urgent matters, mark the subject line URGENT and we will prioritize accordingly.

APPROVALS

All press releases, bylined articles, sponsored content, and any other material produced for distribution under the Mino or RegenRX name require approval before distribution. Quotes attributed to Elizabeth Straus or Brandon Howard, MD that are not drawn directly from the founder Q&A document require individual approval. Brand asset uses outside the specifications in the brand assets document require approval.

CONFIDENTIALITY

The contents of this PR partner kit, including the talking points, founder Q&A, press release template, and brand asset specifications, are confidential and provided under the terms of the active engagement. They are not for redistribution to other firms or to clients beyond the specific PR partnership for which they were provided.

UPDATES

This kit is current as of Edition 2026 and will be updated periodically as the company evolves, the portfolio shifts, and new market context emerges. Active PR partners will receive updated editions automatically. PR partners working with an older edition should request the current version through hello@mino.life.
